The Secret's Out: Cameroon Has Oil

ut Cautious President Ahidjo Determined to Avoid 'Boom Mentality'

DUALA, Cameroon — This coastal city booms with the evening. As a car makes its way through the narrow streets, the gleam and dodge out of its way, casting long shadows in the tangle of headlamps...

Cameroon and are expected to begin production shortly. A French firm, Total, is also involved in exploration. Cameroon's share from its oil production last year is estimated by businessmen to have been about $350 million. Of that amount, $128 million showed up on Cameroon's most recent budget. Where did the rest go?

U.S. Ambassador Hume Horan said, "Internally, this country has many tribal, religious and ethnic divisions as any country in Africa. But here it is, getting along just fine." "The Cameroonians don't make a lot of speeches, they don't tout their own horn. Their food production is OK, they're having a little bit of an oil boom. If there were more Cameroonians in the world, our foreign policy would be much easier."

Polish Union Cancels Plans For Walkout

By Brian Mooney
RADOM, Poland — Independent trade union leaders in this Polish industrial city have called off a two-hour regional strike set for Wednesday, state radio said Monday night.

The official news agency said the decision to cancel the strike had been taken "in view of the partial fulfillment of our demands by the authorities." Solidarity national leader Lech Walesa earlier appealed to workers in Radom not to strike, saying he was confident that the government would send a delegation to negotiate their demands.

Israel Viewed as 7th In World Arms Sales

By Drew Middleton
New York Times Service
NEW YORK — The rapidly expanding Israeli arms industry now ranks seventh among the world's exporters of weapons and defense-related equipment with sales for the year ending April 1 amounting to about $1.3 billion, a 40 percent increase over those of the previous year, according to a British military publication. The publication Defense Attache suggests that one reason for the success of Israel's exports is that many of the weapons are "combat proven." Another, the London publication said, is a high technological standard.

NEWS ANALYSIS

Superpowers' Exports
American and other analysts believe that the expansion of the Israeli arms industry has a significant influence on the balance of power in the Middle East. No potential Arab adversary has a comparable arms production capacity; in a war, they must rely on support from the United States, France, Britain or the Soviet Union.

The two superpowers dominate arms exports. Although many Soviet deals are secret, it is estimated that the United States and the Soviet Union are responsible for 75 percent of the trade. Israel's arms industry, analysts said, would give it an initial advantage in another Arab-Israeli war. But they added that modern warfare's appetite for military resources is so great, as the 1973 conflict demonstrated, that in a war lasting more than three weeks Israel would probably have to turn to the United States for resupply. This would be especially true, they suggested, for precision-guided missiles to be used against tanks and planes.

Israel's sources added, is not self-sufficient in weaponry. The air force depends on the American F-15 fighter for defense of its air space. Israel's uneasiness over the American agreement to furnish long-range fuel tanks and air-to-air missiles for Saudi Arabia's F-15s reflects a fear that the planes would erode Israel's presumed command of the air.

The Kfir C-2 fighter-bomber, the second version of the Kfir, is the weapon system that has attracted the most attention from foreign buyers. Mexico, Bolivia and Colombia are reported to be interested in it. The basic airframe is similar to that of the French Mirage V, and the engine is made by General Electric. A new fighter, the Lavie, is to enter service at the end of this decade to replace 80 Kfirs and 200 American A-4 Skyhawks now flying. But Israel's economic difficulties have made it difficult to pay for the plane. Development of the Lavie, including four prototypes, would cost about $900 million in 1980 dollars. An additional expense would be construction of a plant to produce an American engine for the new aircraft.

The most versatile and innovative weapon produced by Israel is the Merkava, or Charriot, tank, which in special circumstances would go into action carrying five infantrymen. But the Merkava has been built for Israel's special environmental and geographic requirements, and the tank is probably the weapon least attractive to foreign buyers. Another factor is that every major Western military power is already deep into production of a new tank and is seeking foreign purchasers.

First Merkava Tanks
The first Merkava tanks were deployed in 1979. It is a costly weapon for a country having serious economic problems. An expert put the price at $1.07 million apiece, and Defense Attache said that 23.8 percent of its equipment is imported.

American tank experts said that although the Merkava has sufficient armor and armament, they had some doubts about its mobility compared with the new American XM-1 Abrams tank. But the Israelis are confident that the Merkava can outmaneuver and outfight the Soviet T-72s of the Syrian Army, now regarded as the most powerful Arab force.

Another Israeli weapon that has found favor with foreign buyers is the Soltam 155mm howitzer. Israeli sources said that it had been sold to five other countries.

The Uzi submachine gun was the first Israeli weapon to be sold widely overseas. Israel Military Industries is now promoting the Galil assault rifle, which Defense Attache reported "continues to progress in international markets, with sales to a number of countries."

Chinese Find Burial Ground Of Dinosaurs

United Press International
PEKING — Chinese archaeologists have discovered what they believe could be the world's largest burial pit for dinosaurs in the Sichuan Basin of south central China, newspapers said Monday.

The dinosaur fossils, dating from 150 million years ago, were found near Zigong, 90 miles southeast of the provincial capital of Chengdu, the newspapers said. Since 1979, more than 200 crates of fossil weighing up to 40 tons have been unearthed. Among the finds are four dinosaur heads and eight sets of relatively complete skeletons of the giant reptiles.

Marchais' Party Assails Socialists On Pravda Piece

Reuters
PARIS — France's Communist Party accused the country's Socialist Party Monday of being behind a plot to convince Frenchmen that the Soviet Union supports President Valery Giscard d'Estaing in his bid for re-election next month.

The Communists, whose leader, Georges Marchais, is also a candidate, said there had been deliberate misrepresentation of an article by the Soviet party daily Pravda that described Mr. Giscard d'Estaing as a "restrained and careful politician."

Two left-of-center Paris dailies, Le Matin and Le Quotidien de Paris, during the weekend carried headlines that read, respectively, "Elections — Brezhnev Chooses Giscard" and "Brezhnev Votes for Giscard."

A French Communist Politburo statement said: "The Pravda article makes judgments that we do not share. But it is intellectual and political dishonesty to claim that Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev is calling on Frenchmen to vote for Giscard."

The RPR Gaullist party, whose leader, Jacques Chirac, is a main challenger, claimed the Pravda article demonstrated Moscow's wish for France to be ruled by "a weak president." Mr. Giscard d'Estaing's supporters said the Pravda article was purely a journalistic account and did not constitute an incursion into French political life.

Japanese Cabinet Official Rebukes Soviet Diplomats

By Sam Jameson
Los Angeles Times Service
TOKYO — Chief Cabinet Secretary Kiichi Miyazawa said Monday that Soviet diplomats "creeping around within their own small circle" have no understanding of Japan's open society and have adopted misdirected policies toward Tokyo.

Mr. Miyazawa, who is in charge of coordinating Cabinet activities, issued the unusual criticism after a meeting on Sunday between Foreign Minister Masayoshi Ito and Soviet Ambassador Dmitri S. Polyansky. Mr. Miyazawa disclosed Monday that Mr. Polyansky had asked to meet in secret with Premier Zenko Suzuki.

"Japan is not the kind of country in which the premier must meet secretly with the ambassador of a foreign country, nor is it a country in which such a thing can be done," he said.

Mr. Miyazawa, who was speaking to Japanese newsmen, cited the request for a secret meeting as an example of what he called "misdirected" Soviet policies toward Japan.

"Indeed, it is difficult to cite a Soviet policy toward Japan which is not misdirected," he said. "Japan is an open society. Making contacts [with Japan] with a more open attitude would seem to be of great value, considering the importance of relations between our two countries," Mr. Miyazawa said.

The Cabinet secretary said the Soviet Union had assembled a superior staff at its embassy in Tokyo but "they creep around within their own small circle, refraining from joining Japan's open society, and therefore, I presume, they do not understand the way things are done in Japan."

He also criticized Mr. Polyansky for pressing for a meeting with Japan's premier when Japan's ambassador in Moscow "can't even meet Foreign Minister [Andrej A.] Gromyko, much less Chairman [Leonid I.] Brezhnev."

Mr. Miyazawa said Ambassador Polyansky would not be granted a meeting with Premier Suzuki as much as Sunday's meeting with Foreign Minister Ito had "terminated" the business the Soviet Union wished to raise with Japan.

That business was an appeal by Mr. Polyansky for Japan and the Soviet Union to enlarge economic, cultural and other exchanges to promote a "spirit of trust." Mr. Ito rejected the request, saying that the Soviet Union must first drop its refusal to discuss the return of four northern islands to Japan that Russian forces seized in 1945.

On Monday Mr. Suzuki repeated Japan's insistence that Moscow open negotiations on the issue of the northern islands. Mr. Suzuki declared in parliament that he was willing to meet with Mr. Brezhnev — but only if the Soviet Union agreed to talk about the return of the islands.

U.S. Investigators Find Illegal Aliens Get Government Housing Subsidies

By Robert Pear
New York Times Service
WASHINGTON — Preliminary inquiries by congressional investigators strongly suggest that substantial numbers of illegal aliens receive federal housing subsidies: hundreds of thousands of them wait months or years for assistance.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development has taken the position that "there is no basis for inquiring into the status of persons applying for federal housing subsidies."

Rep. Wayne R. Grisham, R-Calif., has introduced a bill to prohibit illegal aliens from receiving federal housing assistance. "I see no reason why assistance should be provided to illegal aliens to the detriment of otherwise eligible low-income families," he said.

Housing officials say that in almost every part of the country they are inundated with applications when they announce the availability of subsidies. The officials say that housing assistance is available to less than 20 percent of those who need it.

The officials said that the value of subsidies varied from city to city but that some families might receive as much as $100,000 in rent subsidies over 25 years. Under the basic subsidy program, the federal government pays the difference between the fair-market rent and what a tenant can afford to pay.

The authority to control immigration, to admit or exclude aliens, is vested exclusively in the federal government. Federal and local officials may not discriminate against citizens or permanent resident aliens on the basis of national origin, and the Fifth and 14th Amendments to the Constitution guarantee "due process of law and equal protection of the laws" to any "person" in the United States, not just to citizens.

The high court said in 1971 that states could not deny welfare benefits to legal aliens or impose a residency requirement because in so doing they would encroach on the exclusive federal power over immigration.

But the federal government may impose such restrictions, according to the Supreme Court, which in 1976 upheld a rule denying Medicare benefits to aliens who had not lived in the United States for at least five years.

Arizonan Better After Transplant

United Press International
STANFORD, Calif. — Mary Gohlke, the world's only living heart-lung transplant patient, was reported to be steadily improving Monday, but doctors said she would probably remain in intensive care for at least a month. Her condition was still listed as critical but stable.

A Stanford University Medical Center spokeswoman said Mrs. Gohlke, 45, who was able to "sit up in a chair for brief periods and walk a few steps" Sunday, was breathing on her own and was able to talk with relatives and watch some television.

Mrs. Gohlke, a newspaper advertising executive from Mesa, Ariz., received the heart and lungs of a 15-year-old accident victim, Robert Smith, in a four-hour operation last Monday. She was the first patient to receive a transplanted heart and lungs together in more than a decade. In three previous attempts, the longest survivor lived 23 days.

Candidate Coluche Exits Stage Left, Must Return Stage Center, Beaming

By Carolyn Leska
The Associated Press
PARIS — It was billed as a news event, but the gathering turned out to be a court scene for the king of French comedy to announce that he is still a candidate for president.

Coluche, best known by his stage name Coluche, had died on Sunday that he was ending a bizarre election campaign. He said that because I wanted a lot of journalists here, he said the comedian as he performed nightly. The play was a success.

About 150 French and foreign journalists sat before him in the theater, television camera lights and the clicking sound of graphers was nonstop. As a turnout that rivaled representation at news conferences for other candidates in the presidential election.

Coluche, dressed in his trademark yellow tennis shoes, sported overalls and sporting a brightly painted red nose, was asked whom he would support if he fails to make it into the runoff election.

"Perhaps Pompidou," he replied, speaking of the former French president who died in 1974.

He added that if President Valery Giscard d'Estaing were re-lected to another seven-year term he would ask for political asylum in Belgium.

When asked about what he would do about France's unemployment rate, which now stands at 7.3 percent, Coluche swallowed his pizza and said, "That is not a question for a clown with a red nose."

French comedian Coluche, who announced that he was giving up his presidential campaign and later reversed himself, saluted crowds at an earlier appearance wearing only the tricolor ribbon and feathers of France's national symbol, the rooster.

Allegations of Inflated Expenses Spark Major Crisis Inside European Parliament

By Roger Cohen
PARIS — The European Parliament is coming under criticism with allegations by members of inflated expenses — too much money spent on overseas trips, expensive quarters and office cleaners. For the member assembly, the attack provoked a major internal crisis a time when, almost two weeks after its first direct election, it lacks a permanent home. A mounting campaign against assembly, Marco Pannella, an Italian Radical, charges the Parliament with spending $14.2 million on rent, $450,000 a year on reception, $500,000 on hiring for its members, and more $1 million on cleaning its offices. A parliamentary delegation of members on a weeklong visit to America last month spent 1,000 of European Economic Community taxpayers' money, and eight numerous bottles of expensive champagne, Mr. Pannella says. "We do not dispute Mr. Pannella's figures," a parliamentary spokesman said. "But we believe in 4 UN Women Report Sex Harassment in Survey

By Bernard D. Nossiter
NEW YORK — At least one-fourth of the women at the United Nations have been sexually harassed, a survey conducted by the Ad Hoc Group on Equal Rights for Women. Out of 144 women replied to a questionnaire put out by the group, 32 said they had been harassed by superiors and others. Lowering women were said to be particularly vulnerable since many are in the United States on visas that permit them to stay only if they work at the United Nations. Discrimination was reported at higher levels as well. Women hold 21.6 percent of the professional jobs at the United Nations. Of the 88 top-ranked posts, four are held by women, and they are assistant secretaries-general, the bottom rung. Two are in the UN Children's Fund. Almost all of the respondents reported some form of discrimination, with harassment related to promotion and job assignment the leading complaints. In part, the United Nations' attempt to spread jobs around among all members hurts women. Outside of a handful of Western democracies, most UN members do not nominate women for headquarters posts. The ad hoc group, its members dressed in black, called on Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim recently to complain. He listened sympathetically, promised progress, and, rather missing the point, told the women he would prefer to see them in pink or some other color.

From Energy Campaigns to Press Codes, Turkey's Leaders Regiment Daily Life

By Marvin Howe
ANKARA — Turkey's military men, who assumed power last September to restore law and order, are trying to bring stricter discipline into Turkish life. The move for more regimentation is directed first at Turkey's huge, lax administration and the unruly schools, but it threatens to spill over into the press and other sectors. In their drive against politics and politicians, the military rulers have brought many retired officers into the administration and public enterprises, replacing political businessmen at ministers, undersecretaries, deputy undersecretaries and directors general as well as governors and mayors. Military personnel are also being introduced in a watchdog capacity in the ministries. Press Code Begun The official gazette recently announced the appointment of 16 new directors general, including a retired full general, two lieutenant generals, three major generals and two colonels. Among the retired generals called to new tasks are Necati Ozkaner, the new director general of information; Macit Akman, director general of the state radio and television company; and Cevdet Tanyeli, director general of Anatolia, the state news agency. A director general ranks third in the Turkish administrative hierarchy after the Cabinet minister and undersecretary. In their efforts to regiment the public services, the authorities have announced plans to establish a state information office; ministries are no longer authorized to give any information directly to the press, and work had begun on a press morality code. Foreign Drinks Banned The premier's circular emphasized that in official receptions "expensive dishes" are to be avoided and bread should be cut in small slices to avoid waste. The head of state, Gen. Kenan Evren, has gone a step further, banning all foreign drinks at his receptions. It has also been decided to set up pay phones in all government buildings for the use of employees. Only ministers, undersecretaries and directors general will have telephones in their offices. In line with moves to introduce a new work ethic, the director general of press and information forbade employees to look out of the windows on the main street. The Interior Ministry recently barred the opening of any new coffeehouses and ordering tight control of the licenses of existing coffeehouses. It is also clear that Turks will continue to drink tea in their coffeehouses, contrary to rumors that the new regime would bring back Turkish coffee, which has not been imported since 1978, when the economic crisis intensified. A senior government official said that if the ban on importing coffee was ended, Turks might think all their economic problems were over, and they are not. The Minister of Education, retired Gen. Hasan Saglam, has led the move for more regimentation in the schools, which had been a center of political violence. Earlier this month, ordered that all teachers, students and other school personnel should take part in flag ceremonies. The Education Ministry has also issued rules on the appearances of teachers; that male teachers wear ties, keep their hair well cut and not wear beards, and that female teachers wear suitable clothing. 4 Terrorist Suspects Slain ISTANBUL (AP) — Turkish police sources said Monday that four suspected terrorists killed in a shootout with police near Istanbul Sunday belonged to a little-known leftist group, the People's Revolutionary Vanguard, which is believed linked to the Turkish People's Liberation Army-Front.

Hospitalization Risks Stir Alarm in U.S.

By Victor Cohn
WASHINGTON — More than a third of 815 consecutive patients admitted to a Boston University Medical Center medical ward developed an illness or disability caused in some way by their hospitalization. Sixteen died. Thirty-six, or one-half of 1 percent, of 6,612 surgical patients admitted to Boston's Peter Bent Brigham Hospital — a famed Harvard affiliate — suffered an "adverse outcome" caused by some kind of surgical error. Eleven died, and five were left with "serious physical impairment." In 1979 in California, 30 hospitals did risky open-heart surgery on children, but only three of the hospitals — by most standards — did enough such operations to make sure of safety and best possible outcome. These three revelations are in three articles in the most recent New England Journal of Medicine. All describe conditions many authorities consider typical throughout the country in large hospitals and small, though few doctors talk of them publicly. Botched Operations Twenty-three of the 36 unfortunate surgical patients at Peter Bent Brigham actually were admitted after unwise or botched operations at other hospitals. Most of the Boston University hospital mishaps were probably unavoidable. Many were adverse drug reactions in severely ill, often older patients who needed the drugs. There were also many complications after complex diagnoses or treatments, like cardiac catheterization (threading a catheter through the heart) or intravenous therapy. But between 1 and 5 percent of the Boston University mishaps —

Bonn Survey Finds 18% of Voters Felt Life Was Better Under Hitler

HAMBURG — "Germany had it better under Hitler," said 18 percent of West German voters according to a survey ordered by the Bonn government and published in part by Spiegel magazine Monday. The magazine said that every seventh West German citizen has an extreme rightist viewpoint and almost half of this group favors the use of force, according to the survey ordered in 1979 and allegedly kept under wraps since it was finished last year. Spiegel said the report was compiled by the Munich-based Sinus Institute and based on the evaluation of rightist literature and the questioning of 6,968 eligible voters. "The alarming result: A total of 13 percent of the voters (about 5.5 million) have an ideologically closed frame of mind, the main supports of which are a National Socialist [Nazi] view of history, hatred of foreigners, democracy and pluralism and an exaggerated devotion to people, fatherland and family," the magazine reports, quoting the survey. Spiegel added: "Almost half of the extreme rightists, that is about 6 percent of eligible voters, accept politically motivated force, up to terror against people." The survey was quoted as saying that the rightist tendency is less obvious among trade unionists, but strong among farmers. The West German states most affected were said to be Bavaria and Hesse. "An above-average number of rightist radicals come from villages of between 2,000 and 5,000 inhabitants, from small towns and the rural areas around big cities. More often than not they have no professional training," the report said. The clear majority of rightists are over 50 years old, those who experienced the Hitler dictatorship, the report said. "Only 4 percent of those who can be grouped into rightist extremism are 18-21 years old."

Russians Called Large Consumers of 'Moonshine'

DURHAM, N.C. — In the Soviet Union, as in the United States, some of the best home-brewed alcohol comes from the hinterlands of Georgia...

However, in an article in the Journal of Alcohol Studies, Tremblé who heads Duke's Slavic studies program, suggests that rather than chacha, it is the vodka-like samogon, or home brew, sometimes distilled to well over 100 proof...

Profitable Business

Tremblé, who recently returned from a visit to the Soviet Union, where he lectured to economists, estimated that 250,000 to 300,000 people were putting in the equivalent of full-time work in the production of home-brewed alcohol.

States, organized crime, paying by barter and salaries and tips kept "off the books" form a large part of a "hidden economy."

Aid From Cuba

As in the hills and hollows of the U.S. South, moonshine production in the Soviet Union is a major consumer of sugar. In recent years, Tremblé says, the abundance of cheap sugar from Cuba has played a key role in increasing the supplies and quality of samogon.

Thank you, thank you, Cuba. All of Russia does proclaim. Ten ounces per kilo of sugar. And it burns with a bright blue flame.

In addition to the statistical analysis, Tremblé has also been interviewing some of the 120,000 Soviet citizens who have come to the United States in recent years. Although most of them are Jews, who as a group are thought to consume less alcohol than the national average, Tremblé did come across one doctor who had been in charge of the alcoholic ward of a psychiatric hospital in Moscow.

Tom Waits: Old Tunes, New Look

By Michael Zwernin International Herald Tribune

PARIS — The new Tom Waits is touring Europe. In Paris last week for a TV show, he was clean-shaven, chubby-cheeked, wearing no disguises, looking more like Vic Damone than Harry the Hipster.

The old Tom Waits was called a "sordid bohemian," "the last beatnik." A "fascinating minor talent" and "the most interesting monologist since Lenny Bruce."

His boozey voice sang about truck stops, American strips, all-night diners and moonshiners; about warm beer and cold women, graveyards and the wrong side of the tracks.

Motel as Home He moved into the Tropicana Motel in West Hollywood because he used to crash there when he was too drunk to drive home.

ple wanted to be part of. Other singers, like Bette Midler, began to record his songs.

He began his career cleaning up Napoleon's all-night pizzeria in San Diego at the age of 12. Then he was a doorman, washed dishes, worked in a pool hall, sold ice cream and hardware.

Food Production French Testing a Group of More-Prolific Porkers From China

By Carol Dickson International Herald Tribune L. ROCHELLE, France — There are nine strange-looking hogs at the agricultural experiment station at Magneraud, near La Rochelle, that could revolutionize Western hog production.

They arrived by air at Orly Nov. 24, 1979 — two females and one male of each of three breeds — the Mei-Shan, an all-black animal with four white feet, a white snout and folds of flesh around its head.

Expensive Shopping Lists of U.S. Oil Companies Draw Criticism

By Douglas Martin
NEW YORK — For the nation's big oil companies, it has been quite a shopping spree.

But the biggest criticism concerns an apparent reluctance by some oil companies to use their oil profits to find more oil, which was one of the principal arguments in the industry's case for decontrolling the price of crude oil.

The hard-minerals business is very much like the hydrocarbon business we're in," said Alton W. Whitehouse, Sohio's chairman and chief executive officer.

A towering success. TDK in 1980

Advertisement for TDK featuring an image of a VTR machine and a bar chart showing net sales growth from 1976 to 1980. Text includes: '1980 was another exciting year for TDK. The home boom and the growing importance of electronics almost every field results dynamic markets for all products. Profiting from technological edge, we increased our sales of ceramic and coil components as well as audio and video tapes. Our improved performance was attributable to the expansion of VTR and other markets, the development of materials and components in step with market needs, continued investment in production capacity and system sales of assembly machines and components.' Includes TDK logo and address: TDK ELECTRONICS CO., 6-1, Minobashi 1-chome, Chuo-ku, Tokyo 400.

Advertisement for Olympic Airways featuring an image of an Airbus A300 aircraft. Text includes: 'Now, there's a new way of flying to Greece. Olympic Airbus A300. Spacious. Quiet. Sumptuous. Wider aisles. More leg room. More luggage space. Add Olympic hospitality, and the convenience of Olympic's own inter-connecting terminal at Athens airport and there's no better way of getting to Greece. For business or pleasure, first-class or tourist, make it a legendary trip from the major cities of Europe. Carve a bit of history for yourself.' Includes Olympic Airways logo and phone number: 31 02 51.

FROM OUR PROFITABLE BASE IN THE NETHERLANDS WE RANGE UNUSUALLY FAR.

Ennia is one of the largest and fastest growing insurance groups in The Netherlands, with assets exceeding Dfl. 10 billion. The major proportion of our revenue is generated at home but our international business is growing rapidly, and already forms 23% of the total. We have offices, subsidiaries and affiliates in the United States, the Middle East, the Caribbean, Surinam, Belgium and the United Kingdom. We have also acquired a majority interest in the insurance company Galicia S.A. with branches throughout Spain.

Internationally we operate in three main areas: life insurance (55%), general and re-insurance (36%), and related sectors including mortgages, property development, even holiday centres (9%).

Balanced growth internationally

Our objective is sustained, balanced growth at home and abroad and we have established a good record in this to the benefit of shareholders and policyholders.

If you have an interest in the insurance industry, or simply in the success of a growing international business with an increasing reputation for balanced growth—you should have information on file about Ennia.

Please contact us for a copy of our corporate brochure. Ennia N.V., Churchillplein 1, The Hague, The Netherlands. Tel: (070) 727272. Telex: 31657.

Ho Chi Minh and the OSS
Against these facts, "Why Viet Nam?" comes as a fascinating fragment from the early moments of that long story. It is the first-person tale of a then U.S. major and officer in the OSS (Office of Strategic Services, predecessor of the Central Intelligence Agency), Archimedes L. A. Patti, and of his dealings with the Viet Minh, most especially, with Ho himself and others we later learned to know well, such as Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap.

Whooping Cranes Ready to Mate
WASHINGTON — A big jump in the rising number of whooping cranes will take place in the next few years, the males can find enough female government predators.
In its successful efforts to increase the population of the once nearly extinct birds, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service apparently has come up with more male than female birds. The service said that three birds hatched in 1975 have begun exhibiting the characteristic behavior of breeding-age males and may have trouble finding females of suitable age.

The Suitcase of S.J. Perelman

By Herbert Mitgang
New York Times Service

NEW YORK — The battered 30-inch tan suitcase with scuffed leather trim has been looking like any other sentimental relic ready for the junk heap.

Travel Notes
Even his notes are funny, but also factual. He went to the trouble of typing up his handwritten notes when he went to the Far East in 1947 with his longtime friend Al Hirschfeld, the artist.

Whites on Perelman
As his New Yorker colleague E.B. White once described his style, "Sid had the greatest and most formidable vocabulary I have ever encountered."

S.J. Perelman

Perelman suggests: "Monet makes the world go round... Methinks he doth protein too much... Around the bend in 80 days... To err is human, to forgive supine."

has invented, the revue form is closest to pounce. Every revue since the Garrick Gaeties' has sprung from the same larva, an impassioned statement by someone flushed with martinis that what Broadway needs this season is a smart, intimate revue on the order of the Garrick Gaeties.

Outrageous phrases are encountered in these pages that are quintessential Perelman: "Monet makes the world go round... Methinks he doth protein too much... Around the bend in 80 days... To err is human, to forgive supine."

Hollywood and Broadway — rich sources for so much of his satire — get their comeuppance again. On Broadway: "Though not constitutionally averse to the crackle of greenbacks, I learned a long time ago that of all the passports to insolvency mankind
